CHAPTER TWO THE OFFENCE

FIRST TITLE FOUNDATIONS OF CRIMINAL LIABILITY

Section 13

Omissions

(1) Whosoever fails to avert a result which is an element of a criminal provision shall only be liable under this law if he is responsible under law to ensure that the result does not occur, and if the omission is equivalent to the realisation of the statutory elements of the offence through a positive act.

(2) The sentence may be mitigated pursuant to section 49(1).

Section 14 Acting for another

(1) If a person acts:

1. in his capacity as an organ authorised to represent a legal entity or as a member of such an organ;
2. as a partner authorised to represent a partnership with independent legal capacity; or
3. as a statutory representative of another,

any law according to which special personal attributes, relationships or circumstances (special personal characteristics) form the basis of criminal liability, shall apply to the representative, if these characteristics do not exist in his person but in the entity, partnership or person represented.

(2) If a person, whether by the owner of a business or somebody delegated by him, has been

1. commissioned to manage the business, in whole or in part; or
2. expressly commissioned to perform autonomous duties which are incumbent on the owner of the business, and the person acts on the basis of this commission, any law, according to which special personal characteristics give rise to criminal liability shall apply to the person commissioned, if these characteristics do not exist in his but in the person of the owner of the business. Within the meaning of the 1st sentence above an enterprise shall be the equivalent of a business. If a person acts on the basis of a similar commission for an agency performing public administrative services, the first sentence shall apply mutatis mutandis.

(3) Subsections (1) and (2) above shall apply even if the act of commission intended to create the power of representation or the agency is void.

Section 15 Intent and negligence

Unless the law expressly provides for criminal liability based on negligence, only intentional conduct shall attract criminal liability.

Section 16 Mistake of fact

(1) Whosoever at the time of the commission of the offence is unaware of a fact which is a statutory element of the offence shall be deemed to lack intention. Any liability for negligence remains unaffected.

(2) Whosoever at the time of commission of the offence mistakenly assumes the existence of facts which would satisfy the elements of a more lenient provision, may only be punished for the intentional commission of the offence under the more lenient provision.

Section 17 Mistake of law

If at the time of the commission of the offence the offender lacks the awareness that he is acting unlawfully, he shall be deemed to have acted without guilt if the mistake was unavoidable. If the mistake was avoidable, the sentence may be mitigated pursuant to section 49(1).

Section 18 Aggravated sentence based on special consequences of the offence

If the law imposes a more serious sentence based on an extended result if an offence, any principal or secondary participant is liable to the increased sentence only if they acted at least negligently with respect to that result.

Persons who have not attained the age of fourteen at the time of the commission of the offence shall be deemed to act without guilt.

Section 20

Diminished responsibility

SECOND TITLE ATTEMPT

Section 22
Definition

A person attempts to commit an offence if he takes steps which will immediately lead to the completion of the offence as envisaged by him.

Section 23
Liability for attempt

- (1) Any attempt to commit a felony entails criminal liability; this applies to attempted misdemeanours only if expressly so provided by law.
- (2) An attempt may be punished more leniently than the completed offence (section 49(1)).
- (3) If the offender due to gross ignorance fails to realise that the attempt could under no circumstances have led to the completion of the offence due to the nature of its object or the means by which it was to be committed, the court may order a discharge, or mitigate the sentence as it sees fit (section 49(2)).

Section 24
Withdrawal

- (1) A person who of his own volition gives up the further execution of the offence or prevents its completion shall not be liable for the attempt. If the offence is not completed regardless of his actions, that person shall not be liable if he has made a voluntary and earnest effort to prevent the completion of the offence.
- (2) If more than one person participate in the offence, the person who voluntarily prevents its completion shall not be liable for the attempt. His voluntary and earnest effort to prevent the completion of the offence shall suffice for exemption from liability, if the offence is not completed regardless of his actions or is committed independently of his earlier contribution to the offence.

THIRD TITLE
PRINCIPALS AND SECONDARY PARTICIPANTS

Section 25

- (1) If special personal characteristics (section 14(1)) that establish the principal's liability are absent in the person of the secondary participant (abettor or aider) their sentence shall be mitigated pursuant to section 49(1).
- (2) If the law provides that special personal characteristics aggravate, mitigate or exclude punishment this shall apply only to the accomplices (principals or secondary participants) in whose person they are present.

Section 29
Separate criminal liability of the accomplice

Each accomplice shall be liable according to the measure of his own guilt and irrespective of the guilt of the others.

Section 30
Conspiracy

 3. after having agreed to commit a felony or accepted the offer of another to commit a felony prevents the commission of the offence.
- (2) If the offence is not completed regardless of his actions or if it is committed independently of his previous conduct, his voluntary and earnest effort to prevent the completion of the offence shall suffice for exemption from liability.

(2) Self-defence means any defensive action that is necessary to avert an imminent unlawful attack on oneself or another.

Section 34 Necessity

A person who, faced with an imminent danger to life, limb, freedom, honour, property or another legal interest which cannot otherwise be averted, commits an act to avert the danger from himself or another, does not act unlawfully, if, upon weighing the conflicting interests, in particular the affected legal interests and the degree of the danger facing them, the protected interest substantially outweighs the one interfered with. This shall apply only if and to the extent that the act committed is an adequate means to avert the danger.

Section 35 Duress

- (1) A person who, faced with an imminent danger to life, limb or freedom which cannot otherwise be averted, commits an unlawful act to avert the danger from himself, a relative or person close to him, acts without guilt. This shall not apply if and to the extent that the offender could be expected under the circumstances to accept the danger, in particular, because he himself had caused the danger, or was under a special legal obligation to do so; the sentence may be mitigated pursuant to section 49(1) unless the offender was required to accept the danger because of a special legal obligation to do so.
(2) If at the time of the commission of the act a person mistakenly assumes that circumstances exist which would excuse him under subsection (1) above, he will only be liable if the mistake was avoidable. The sentence shall be mitigated pursuant to section 49(1).

CHAPTER THREE SANCTIONS

FIRST TITLE PENALTIES

—Imprisonment—

Section 38
Term of imprisonment

- (1) Imprisonment shall be for a fixed term unless the law provides for life imprisonment.
- (2) The maximum term of fixed-term imprisonment shall be fifteen years, the minimum term one month.

Determination of fixed-term imprisonment

Imprisonment for less than a year shall be determined in full weeks and months, imprisonment for a longer period in full months and years.

—Fine—

Section 40
Day fine units

- (1) A fine shall be imposed in daily units. The minimum fine shall consist of five and, unless the law provides otherwise, the maximum shall consist of three hundred and sixty full daily units.
- (2) The court shall determine the amount of the daily unit taking into consideration the personal and financial circumstances of the offender. In doing so, it shall typically base its calculation on the actual average one-day net income of the offender or the average income he could achieve in one day. A daily unit shall not be set at less than one and not at more than thirty thousand euros.
- (3) The income of the offender, his assets and other relevant assessment factors may be estimated when setting the amount of a daily unit.
- (4) The number and amount of the daily units shall be indicated in the decision.

Section 41
Fines in addition to imprisonment

If the offender through the commission of the offence enriched or tried to enrich himself, a fine which otherwise would not have been provided for or only in the alternative may be imposed in addition to imprisonment if this appears appropriate taking into consideration the personal and financial circumstances of the offender. This does not apply if the court imposes an order pursuant to section 43a.

Section 42
Allowing time for payment; instalments

If a convicted offender, due to his personal or financial circumstances, cannot be expected to pay the full fine immediately, the court shall allow a certain time for payment or allow payment in specified instalments. The court may also order that the privilege of paying the fine in fixed instalments will be revoked if the convicted offender fails to pay an instalment in time. The court shall also allow for such conditions of payment if without them the restitution by the offender of any damage caused by the offence were to be substantially impaired; the court may require the offender to present proof of restitution.

Section 43
Imprisonment for default of payment

If the fine cannot be recovered, it shall be replaced by imprisonment. One daily unit shall correspond to one day of imprisonment. The minimum term of imprisonment for default of payment shall be one day.

—Confiscatory expropriation order—

Section 43a
Confiscatory expropriation order

- (1) If the law refers to this provision the court may, in addition to imprisonment for life or for a fixed term of more than two years, order payment of a sum of money the amount of which shall be limited by the value of the offender's assets (confiscatory expropriation order). Material benefits which have been confiscated shall not be taken into account when assessing the value of the assets. The value of the assets may be estimated.
- (2) Section 42 shall apply mutatis mutandis.
- (3) The court shall indicate a term of imprisonment which shall be substituted if the amount cannot be recovered (default imprisonment). The maximum term of default imprisonment shall be two years, its minimum one month.

—Ancillary penalty—

Section 44

Temporary driving ban

- (1) If a person has been sentenced to imprisonment or to a fine for an offence committed in connection with the driving of a motor-vehicle or in violation of the duties of a driver of a motor-vehicle, the court may impose a ban prohibiting him from driving any class of motor-vehicle or a specific class on public roads for a period of from one to three months. A driving ban shall typically be imposed in cases of a conviction under section 315c(1) No 1(a), (3) or section 316 unless a disqualification order has been made under section 69.
- (2) The driving ban shall take effect upon the judgment having become final. National and international driving licences issued by a German public authority shall be kept in official safekeeping for its duration. This shall also apply if the driving licence was issued by a public authority of a member state of the European Union or another signatory state of the Treaty on the European Economic Area if the holder is ordinarily resident in Germany. The driving ban shall be endorsed on any other foreign driving licences.
- (3) If a driving licence is to be kept in official safekeeping or the driving ban to be endorsed on a foreign driving licence, the duration of the ban shall be calculated from the day that those conditions have been complied with. Any period during which the offender was kept in detention in an institution pursuant to an order of a public authority shall not count towards the duration.

—Ancillary measures—

Section 45

Loss of ability to hold public office, to vote and be elected in public elections

- (1) A person who has been sentenced for a felony to a term of imprisonment of not less than one year shall, for a period of five years, lose the ability to hold public office and be elected in public elections.
- (2) The court may deprive a convicted person of the ability indicated in subsection (1) above for a period of from two to five years if the law expressly so provides.
- (3) At the same time that the loss of ability to hold public office takes effect, the convicted person shall lose any corresponding legal positions and rights he may at that time hold.
- (4) At the same time the loss of the ability to be elected in public elections takes effect, the convicted person shall lose any corresponding legal positions and rights he may hold unless the law provides otherwise.
- (5) The court may deprive the convicted person of the right to take part in elections or to vote in public affairs for a period of from two to five years if the law expressly so provides.

Section 45a

Entry into effect and calculation of duration

- (1) The loss of the ability, legal positions and rights shall take effect upon the judgment having become final.
- (2) The duration of the loss of ability or of a right shall be calculated from the day the term of imprisonment has been served, barred by the statute of limitations or remitted. If a custodial measure of rehabilitation and incapacitation had been ordered in addition to imprisonment, the duration shall begin on the day that measure has been served.

(3) If the sentence or the measure had been suspended or conditional early release granted under a period of probation, or an executive pardon granted, any operational probationary period shall be included in the calculation of the duration if, after its expiration, the sentence or the remainder thereof has been remitted, or when the measure has been completed.

Section 45b Reinstatement

(1) The court may reinstate abilities lost pursuant to section 45(1) and (2), and rights lost pursuant to section 45(5), if

1. the loss has been in effect for half of its duration; and
2. it can be expected that the convicted person will commit no further intentional offences.

(2) Any period during which the offender was kept in detention in an institution pursuant to an order of a public authority shall not count towards the duration.

SECOND TITLE SENTENCING

Section 46 Principles of sentencing

(1) The guilt of the offender is the basis for sentencing. The effects which the sentence can be expected to have on the offender's future life in society shall be taken into account.

(2) When sentencing the court shall weigh the circumstances in favour of and against the offender. Consideration shall in particular be given to

- the motives and aims of the offender;
- the attitude reflected in the offence and the degree of force of will involved in its commission;
- the degree of the violation of the offender's duties;
- the modus operandi and the consequences caused by the offence to the extent that the offender is to blame for them;
- the offender's prior history, his personal and financial circumstances;
- his conduct after the offence, particularly his efforts to make restitution for the harm caused as well as the offender's efforts at reconciliation with the victim.

(3) Circumstances which are already statutory elements of the offence must not be considered.

Section 46a Offender-victim mediation; restitution

If the offender,

1. in an effort to achieve reconciliation with the victim (offender-victim mediation), has made full restitution or the major part thereof for his offence, or has earnestly tried to make restitution; or

2. in a case in which making restitution for the harm caused required substantial personal services or personal sacrifice on his part, has made full compensation or the major part thereof to the victim, the court may mitigate the sentence pursuant to section 49(1) or, unless the sentence to be imposed on the offender is imprisonment not exceeding one year or a fine not exceeding three hundred and sixty daily units, may order a discharge.

Section 46b

Contributing to the discovery or prevention of serious offences

(1) If the perpetrator of an offence punishable by an increased minimum sentence of imprisonment or a sentence of life imprisonment,

1. has substantially contributed to the discovery of an offence under section 100a(2) of the Code of Criminal Procedure which is related to his own offence by voluntarily disclosing his knowledge, or

2. voluntarily discloses his knowledge to an official authority in time for the completion of an offence under section 100a(2) of the Code of Criminal Procedure related to his own offence, the planning of which he is aware of, to be averted, the court may mitigate the sentence under section 49(1); a sentence of life imprisonment shall be replaced with a term of imprisonment of no less than ten years. In order to determine whether an offence is punishable by an increased minimum sentence of imprisonment, only aggravations for especially serious cases but no mitigations shall be taken into account. If the offender participated in the offence, his contribution to its discovery under the 1st sentence No. 1 above must exceed his own contribution. Instead of a reduction in sentence the court may order a discharge if the offence is punishable by a fixed-term sentence of imprisonment only and the offender would not be sentenced to a term exceeding three years.

(2) In arriving at its decision under subsection (1) above the court shall have particular regard to:

1. the nature and scope of the disclosed facts and their relevance to the discovery or prevention of the offence, the time of disclosure, the degree of support given to the prosecuting authorities by the offender and the gravity of the offence to which his disclosure relates, as well as

2. the relationship of the circumstances mentioned in No. 1 above to the gravity of the offence committed by and the degree of guilt of the offender.

(3) A mitigation of sentence or a discharge under subsection (1) above shall be excluded if the offender discloses his knowledge only after the indictment against him has been admitted by the trial court (section 207 of the Code of Criminal Procedure).

Section 47

Short terms of imprisonment as the exception

(1) The court shall not impose a term of imprisonment of less than six months unless special circumstances exist, either in the offence or the person of the offender, that strictly require the imposition of imprisonment either for the purpose of reform of the offender or for reasons of general deterrence.

(2) If the law does not provide for a fine and a term of imprisonment of six months or more is not to be imposed, the court shall impose a fine unless the imposition of a sentence of imprisonment is strictly required pursuant to subsection (1) above. If the law provides for an increased minimum term of imprisonment, the minimum fine in cases covered by the 1st sentence of this subsection shall be determined by the minimum term of imprisonment; thirty daily units shall correspond to one month's imprisonment.

Section 48
(repealed)

Section 49

Special mitigating circumstances established by law

- (1) If the law requires or allows for mitigation under this provision, the following shall apply:
1. Imprisonment of not less than three years shall be substituted for imprisonment for life.
 2. In cases of imprisonment for a fixed term, no more than three quarters of the statutory maximum term may be imposed. In case of a fine the same shall apply to the maximum number of daily units.
 3. Any increased minimum statutory term of imprisonment shall be reduced as follows:
 - a minimum term of ten or five years, to two years;
 - a minimum term of three or two years, to six months;
 - a minimum term of one year, to three months;in all other cases to the statutory minimum.
- (2) If the court may in its discretion mitigate the sentence pursuant to a law which refers to this provision, it may reduce the sentence to the statutory minimum or impose a fine instead of imprisonment.

Section 50

Multiple mitigating circumstances

A circumstance which alone or together with other circumstances justifies the assumption of a mitigated offence under the provisions of the special part and which is also a special statutory mitigating circumstance for the purposes of section 49, may only be considered once.

Section 51

Effect of time spent in custody

- (1) If a convicted person had been remanded in custody or otherwise been kept in detention because of an offence which is or was the object of the proceedings, any time spent in such custody or detention shall be credited towards a fixed term of imprisonment or a fine. The court may order for such time not to be credited in whole or in part if in light of the conduct of the convicted person after the offence this would be inappropriate.
- (2) If in a later proceeding another sentence is substituted for a previously imposed sentence after that sentence had become final, time served under or credited towards the earlier sentence shall be credited against the new sentence.
- (3) If a convicted person has already been sentenced abroad for the same offence, the foreign sentence, to the extent it has been served, shall be credited towards the new sentence. Subsection (1) above shall apply mutatis mutandis to any other detention suffered abroad.
- (4) For the purpose of crediting a fine against time in detention, or vice versa, one day of detention shall correspond to one daily unit. If a foreign sentence or time in detention is to be credited, the court shall determine the rate as it sees fit.
- (5) For the purpose of crediting a period of provisional disqualification from driving (section 111a of the Code of Criminal Procedure) against a driving ban under section 44, subsection (1) above shall apply mutatis mutandis. For this purpose, the provisional deprivation of a driving licence or its seizure (section 94 of the Code of Criminal Procedure) shall be equivalent to a provisional disqualification.

THIRD TITLE SENTENCING FOR MULTIPLE OFFENCES

Section 52

One act violating multiple laws or the same law more than once

- (1) If the same act violates more than one law or the same law more than once, only one sentence shall be imposed.
- (2) If more than one law has been violated the sentence shall be determined according to the law that provides for the most severe sentence. The sentence may not be more lenient than the other applicable laws permit.
- (3) The court may impose an additional fine to any term of imprisonment under the provisions of section 41.
- (4) If one of the applicable laws allows for the imposition of a confiscatory expropriation order the court may impose it in addition to imprisonment for life or a fixed term of more than two years. In addition, ancillary penalties and measures (section 11(1) No 8) must or may be imposed if one of the applicable laws so requires or allows.

Section 53

Multiple offences committed by multiple acts

- (1) If a person has committed more than one offence, all of which are to be adjudicated at the same time, and incurred more than one sentence of imprisonment or more than one fine, an aggregate sentence shall be imposed.
- (2) If a term of imprisonment concurs with a fine, an aggregate sentence shall be imposed. The court may impose a separate fine; if fines are to be imposed for more than one offence, an aggregate fine shall to that extent be imposed.
- (3) If the offender, pursuant to a law according to which section 43a is applicable or under the terms of section 52(4), has as one of the individual sentences incurred imprisonment for life or a fixed term of more than two years, the court may impose a confiscatory expropriation order in addition to the aggregate sentence formed pursuant to subsections (1) or (2) above; if in such cases a confiscatory expropriation order is to be imposed for more than one offence, an aggregate expropriation order shall to that extent be imposed. Section 43a(3) shall apply mutatis mutandis.
- (4) Section 52(3) and (4) 2nd sentence shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 54

Fixing of aggregate sentence

- (1) If one of the sentences for the individual offences is imprisonment for life, an aggregate sentence of imprisonment for life shall be imposed. In all other cases the aggregate sentence shall be fixed by increasing the most severe individual sentence incurred and, in the case of different kinds of penalties, by increasing the sentence that is most severe in nature. The person of the offender and the individual offences shall be considered in their totality.
- (2) The aggregate sentence shall be less than the sum of the individual sentences. It shall not, in the case of imprisonment for a fixed term, exceed fifteen years, in the case of a confiscatory expropriation order, the value of the offender's assets, and in the case of a fine, seven hundred and twenty daily units; section 43a(1) 3rd sentence shall apply mutatis mutandis.
- (3) If an aggregate sentence is to be fixed based on a term of imprisonment and a fine, one daily unit shall correspond to one day's imprisonment for the purpose of calculating the sum of the individual sentences.

Section 55

Subsequent fixing of aggregate sentence

- (1) Sections 53 and 54 shall also apply to a convicted person who has had a sentence imposed upon him by a final judgment which has neither been enforced, barred by the statute of limitations nor remitted, when that person is convicted of another offence which he committed before the previous conviction. That previous conviction shall be the judgment in those proceedings in which the factual findings underlying the new conviction could last have been examined.

(2) Confiscatory expropriation orders, ancillary penalties and measures (section 11(1) No 8) imposed in the previous sentence shall be upheld to the extent they have not been rendered moot by the new judgment. This applies also when the amount of the expropriation order imposed in the previous sentence exceeds the value of the offender's assets at the time of the new sentence.

FOURTH TITLE SUSPENDED SENTENCES OF IMPRISONMENT

Section 56

Power of court to suspend sentence

(1) If a person is sentenced to a term of imprisonment not exceeding one year the court shall suspend the enforcement of the sentence for a probationary period if there are reasons to believe that the sentence will serve as a sufficient warning to the convicted person and that he will commit no further offences without having to serve the sentence. The court shall particularly take into account the character of the convicted person, his previous history, the circumstances of his offence, his conduct after the offence, his circumstances and the effects to be expected from the suspension.

(2) The court may, under the conditions of subsection (1) above suspend the enforcement of a term of imprisonment not exceeding two years for a probationary period, if after a comprehensive evaluation of the offence and character of the convicted person special circumstances can be found to exist. In making its decision, the court shall particularly take into account any efforts by the convicted person to make restitution for the harm caused by the offence.

(3) The enforcement of a sentence of imprisonment exceeding six months shall not be suspended when reasons of general deterrence so require.

(4) The suspension must not be limited to a part of the sentence. It shall not be excluded by any crediting of time served in custody on remand or any other form of detention.

Section 56a

Operational period

(1) The court shall determine the operational probationary period. This must not exceed five years nor be less than two years.

(2) The operational period shall commence when the decision to suspend the sentence becomes final. It may subsequently be reduced to the minimum or prolonged to the maximum before its expiration.

Section 56b

Conditions

(1) The court may impose conditions on the convicted person directed at repairing the harm caused. No unreasonable demands shall be made from the convicted person.

(2) The court may order the convicted person

1. to make restitution to the best of his ability for the harm caused by the offence;
2. to pay a sum of money to a charitable organisation if this appears appropriate in light of the offence and the character of the offender;
3. to perform community service; or
4. to pay a sum of money to the public treasury.

The court shall not impose a condition pursuant to the 1st sentence of this subsection Nos 2 to 4 unless the fulfilment of the condition does not impair the restitution for the harm caused.

(3) If the convicted person offers to perform appropriate services for the purpose of repairing the harm caused, the court shall typically preliminarily refrain from imposing conditions if it is to be expected that the offer will be fulfilled.

Section 56c

Directions

(1) The court shall impose directions for the duration of the operational period, if the convicted person requires such assistance to abstain from committing offences. No unreasonable demands should be imposed on the convicted person's lifestyle.

(2) The court may, in particular, direct the convicted person

1. to follow instructions which relate to his residence, education, work or leisure, or to the ordering of his financial affairs;
2. to report at certain times to the court or another authority;
3. not to make or maintain contact with the victim, or certain persons or persons from a certain group who may induce him to commit further offences, nor to employ, train or harbour them;
4. not to possess, carry or entrust to another for safekeeping, particular objects which could induce him to commit further offences; or
5. to meet maintenance obligations.

(3) A direction

1. to undergo medical treatment of an invasive nature or treatment for addiction; or
2. to reside in a suitable home or institution

may only be given with the consent of the convicted person.

(4) If the convicted person gives assurances relating to his future conduct, the court shall typically refrain provisionally from issuing directions if it is to be expected that the assurances will be fulfilled.

Section 56d

Supervision order

(1) The court shall place the convicted person under the supervision and guidance of a probation officer for all or part of the operational period if this appears necessary to prevent him from committing offences.

(2) The court shall typically issue an order pursuant to subsection (1) above if it suspends a sentence of imprisonment of more than nine months and the convicted person is less than twenty-seven years of age.

(3) The probation officer shall offer assistance and care to the convicted person. In cooperation with the court he shall supervise the fulfilment of any conditions and directions as well as of any offers and assurances. He shall report on the way the convicted person is conducting himself, at intervals determined by the court. He shall inform the court as to serious or persistent violations of the conditions, directions, offers or assurances.

(4) The probation officer shall be appointed by the court. It may give him instructions concerning his functions under subsection (3) above.

(5) The functions of the probation officer shall be exercised on a full-time official or honorary basis.

Section 56e

Subsequent decisions

The court may also make, modify or vacate decisions pursuant to sections 56b to 56d at a later date.

Section 56f

Order for suspended sentence to take effect

(1) The court shall order the suspended sentence to take effect if the convicted person:

1. commits an offence during the operational period showing that the expectation on which the suspension was based, has been disappointed;
2. grossly or persistently violates directions or persistently evades the supervision and guidance of the probation officer, thereby causing reason for fear that he will re-offend; or
3. grossly or persistently violates conditions.

No 1 of the 1st sentence of this subsection shall apply mutatis mutandis if the offence was committed in the interim period between the decision suspending the sentence and its becoming final; it shall also apply in cases of the subsequent fixing of aggregate sentences if the offence was committed in the period between the decision on the suspension of a judgment included in the aggregate sentence and the date when the aggregate sentence became final.

(2) The court shall not order the suspended sentence to take effect if it is of the opinion that it would suffice

1. to impose further conditions or directions, in particular to place the convicted person under the supervision of a probation officer; or
2. to prolong the operational period or period of supervision.

In cases pursuant to No 2 above the operational period must not be prolonged for more than one-half of the originally imposed period.

(3) The convicted person shall not be compensated for services rendered in fulfilment of conditions, offers, directions or assurances. If a suspended sentence is put into effect the court may credit services which the convicted person has rendered in fulfilment of conditions under section 56b(2) 1st sentence Nos 2 to 4, or related offers under section 56b(3) towards the sentence.

Section 56g

Remission of sentence

(1) Unless the court orders the suspended sentence to take effect, it shall remit the sentence after expiration of the operational period. Section 56f(3) 1st sentence shall apply.

(2) The court may revoke the remission if the convicted person has been sentenced to imprisonment of not less than six months for an intentional offence committed during the operational period. The revocation may only be declared within one year after the expiration of the operational period and six months after the new judgment has become final. Section 56f (1) 2nd sentence and (3) shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 57

Conditional early release—fixed-term imprisonment

(1) The court shall grant conditional early release from a fixed-term sentence of imprisonment under an operational period of probation, if

1. two thirds of the imposed sentence, but not less than two months, have been served; and
2. the release is appropriate considering public security interests; and
3. the convicted person consents.

The decision shall particularly consider the personality of the convicted person, his previous history, the circumstances of his offence, the importance of the legal interest endangered should he re-offend, the conduct of the convicted person while serving his sentence, his circumstances and the effects an early release are to be expected to have on him.

(2) After one half of a fixed-term sentence of imprisonment, but not less than six months, have been served, the court may grant conditional early release, if

1. the convicted person is serving his first sentence of imprisonment, the term not exceeding two years; or
2. a comprehensive evaluation of the offence, the personality of the convicted person and his development while in custody warrant the acceptance of special circumstances, and the remaining requirements of subsection (1) above have been fulfilled.

(3) Sections 56a to 56g shall apply mutatis mutandis; the operational period, even if subsequently reduced, must not be less than the remainder of the sentence. If the convicted person has served at least one year of his sentence before conditional early release is granted the court shall typically place him under the supervision and guidance of a probation officer for all or a part of the operational period.

(4) To the extent a sentence of imprisonment has been reduced through credit for time served it shall be deemed as having been served within the meaning of subsections (1) to (3) above.

(5) Section 56f and section 56g shall apply mutatis mutandis. The court shall also revoke the early release if the convicted person, in the period between his conviction and the decision about the early release, has committed an offence which could for factual reasons not be taken into account by the court when deciding on the early release and which would have led to a denial of early release, had it been known at that time; the conviction shall be the judgment in those proceedings in which the underlying factual findings could last have been examined.

(6) The court may deny early release from a fixed-term sentence of imprisonment, if the convicted person makes insufficient or false statements concerning the whereabouts of objects which are subject to confiscation or are not subject thereto only because the offence has given rise to a claim by the victim under section 73(1) 2nd sentence.

(7) The court may fix a term not exceeding six months before the expiry of which an application by the convicted person for early release shall be inadmissible.

Section 57a

Conditional early release—life imprisonment

(1) The court shall grant conditional early release from a sentence of imprisonment for life under an operational period of probation, if

1. fifteen years of the sentence have been served;
2. the particular seriousness of the convicted person's guilt does not require its continued enforcement; and
3. the requirements of § 57(1) 1st sentence Nos 2 and 3 are met.

Section 57(1) 2nd sentence and (6) shall apply mutatis mutandis.

(2) Any detention suffered by the convicted person as a result of the offence shall qualify as a sentence within the meaning of subsection (1) 1st sentence No 1 above.

(3) The operational period shall be five years. Section 56a(2) 1st sentence, sections 56b to 56g and section 57(3) 2nd sentence and (5) 2nd sentence shall apply mutatis mutandis.

(4) The court may fix terms not exceeding two years, before the expiration of which an application by the convicted person for early release shall be inadmissible.

Section 57b

Conditional early release—life imprisonment as aggregate sentence

If imprisonment for life has been imposed as an aggregate sentence the individual offences shall be comprehensively evaluated in determining the particular seriousness of the guilt (section 57a(1) 1st sentence No 2).

Section 58

Aggregate sentence and suspension of sentence

(1) If a person has committed more than one offence the length of the aggregate sentence shall be dispositive for a suspension under section 56.

(2) If in cases under section 55(1) the previous sentence had been suspended or early release from it granted and if the aggregate sentence has also been suspended, the minimum of the new operational period shall be reduced by any operational period already expired, but not to less than one year. If the aggregate sentence is not suspended section 56f(3) shall apply mutatis mutandis.

FIFTH TITLE

WARNING COMBINED WITH DEFERMENT OF SENTENCE; DISCHARGE

Section 59

Conditions for warning and deferment

(1) If a person has incurred a fine not exceeding one hundred and eighty daily units, the court may warn him at the time of conviction, indicate the sentence and defer its imposition if

1. it can be expected that the offender will commit no further offences without the immediate imposition of the sentence;
2. a comprehensive evaluation of the offence and the personality of the offender warrant the existence of special circumstances which obviate the imposition of a sentence; and
3. reasons of general deterrence do not demand the imposition of a sentence.

Section 56(1) 2nd sentence shall apply mutatis mutandis.

(2) Ancillary orders for confiscation, deprivation or destruction may be imposed in addition to a warning. A warning with deferment shall not be considered alongside measures of rehabilitation and incapacitation.

Section 59a

Operational period, conditions and directions

(1) The court shall determine the length of the operational period. It may not exceed two years nor be less than one year.

(2) The court may direct the convicted person

1. to make efforts at reconciliation with the victim or otherwise make restitution for the harm caused by the offence;
2. to meet his maintenance obligations;
3. to pay a sum of money to a charitable organisation or the public treasury;
4. to undergo outpatient medical treatment or outpatient treatment for addiction;
5. to participate in a social training course; or
6. to participate in road traffic training.

No unreasonable demands should be imposed on the convicted person's lifestyle; the conditions and directions under the 1st sentence of this subsection Nos 3 to 6 must not be disproportionate to the significance of the offence committed by the convicted person. Section 56c(3) and (4) and section 56e shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 59b

Order for deferred sentence to take effect

(1) Section 56f shall apply mutatis mutandis to the order for the deferred sentence to take effect.

(2) If the deferred sentence is not brought into effect the court shall, upon expiry of the operational period, declare that no further action will be taken.

Section 59c

Warning and deferment in cases of aggregate sentences

(1) If a person has committed more than one offence sections 53 to 55 shall apply mutatis mutandis to the calculation of the sentence to be deferred.

(2) If the convicted person is subsequently sentenced to a fine or term of imprisonment for an offence committed before the warning was given, the provisions for fixing an aggregate sentence (Sections 53 to 55, section 58) shall apply, the deferred sentence shall, for the purposes of section 55, be equal to an immediate sentence.

Section 60

Discharge

The court may order a discharge if the consequences of the offence suffered by the offender are so serious that an imposition of penalties would be clearly inappropriate. This shall not apply if the offender has incurred a sentence of imprisonment of more than one year for the offence.

SIXTH TITLE

MEASURES OF REHABILITATION AND INCAPACITATION

Section 61

Overview

The measures of rehabilitation and incapacitation are

1. mental hospital orders;
2. custodial addiction treatment orders;
3. detention for the purpose of incapacitation;
4. supervision orders;
5. disqualification from driving;
6. disqualification from exercising a profession.

Section 62

Principle of proportionality

A measure of rehabilitation and incapacitation must not be ordered if its use is disproportionate to the seriousness of the offence committed by or expected to be committed by the convicted person and to the degree of danger he poses to society.

—Custodial measures—

Section 63

Mental hospital order

If a person has committed an unlawful act in a state of insanity (section 20) or diminished responsibility (section 21) the court shall make a mental hospital order if a comprehensive evaluation of the offender and the act leads to the conclusion that as a result of his condition, future serious unlawful acts can be expected of him and that he therefore presents a danger to the general public.

Section 64

Custodial addiction treatment order

If a person has an addiction to alcohol or other drugs and is convicted of an unlawful act committed while he was intoxicated or as a result of his addiction, or is not convicted only because he has been found to be insane or insanity cannot be excluded on the evidence, the court shall make a custodial addiction treatment order if there is a danger that he will commit future serious unlawful acts as a consequence of his addiction.

Such order shall not be made unless ab initio there is a sufficiently certain prospect of success that the person can be healed by way of custodial addiction treatment or that a relapse into addictive behaviour and the commission of serious unlawful acts caused by that addiction can be prevented for a substantial period of time.

Section 65

(repealed)

Section 66

Detention for the purpose of incapacitation

(1) The court shall make an incapacitation order in addition to the term of imprisonment if

1. a person has been sentenced for an intentional offence to a term of imprisonment of not less than two years, and
 - a) the offence was directed against life or limb, personal freedom or sexual self-determination,
 - b) the offence falls under Chapters One, Seven, Twenty or Twenty-Eight of the Special Part, or under the Code of International Criminal Law or the Drugs Act, and the maximum sentence threatened is no less than ten years' imprisonment, or
 - c) violates section 145a insofar as the supervision order was made on the basis of an offence under a) or b) above, or if it violates § 323a insofar as the offence committed in the drunken state was one of those mentioned under a) or b) above.
2. the offender had been convicted for offences under No. 1 above, committed before the present offence, at least twice to a term of imprisonment of no less than one year each,
3. the offender had for at least one of these offences before the present offence served at least two years in prison or under a custodial measure of rehabilitation and incapacitation, and
4. a comprehensive evaluation at the time of the present conviction of the convicted person and his offences reveals that, due to his propensity to commit serious offences, particularly of a kind resulting in serious emotional trauma or physical injury to the victim, he poses a danger to the general public.

Section 12(3) shall apply mutatis mutandis for the classification of an offence as one falling under the 1st sentence No 1 (b) above, and § 68(1) 4th sentence for the termination of the supervision mentioned under the 1st sentence No 1 (c) above,

(2) If a person has committed three offences under subsection (1) 1st sentence No. 1 above for each of which he incurred a sentence of imprisonment of no less than one year and has been sentenced to a term of imprisonment of no less than three years for one or more of these offences, the court may, under the conditions indicated in subsection (1) 1st sentence No. 4 above, make an incapacitation order in addition to the sentence of imprisonment notwithstanding that there was no prior detention (subsection (1) 1st sentence Nos 2 and 3 above).

(3) If a person is sentenced to a term of imprisonment of at least two years for a felony, which fulfils the criteria under subsection (1) 1st sentence No 1 (a) or (b), or an offence under sections 174 to 174c, section 176, section 179 (1) to (4), section 180, section 182, section 224, section 225 (1) or (2), or for an intentional offence under section 323a insofar as the offence committed in the drunken state is one of the aforementioned offences, the court may make an incapacitation order in addition to the sentence if the offender had already been sentenced to imprisonment of at least three years for one or more of those offences committed prior to the new offence, and if the requirements indicated in subsection (1) 1st sentence Nos 3 and 4 above are fulfilled. If a person has committed two of the offences listed in the 1st sentence of this subsection for each of which he has incurred a sentence of imprisonment of not less than two years and if he is sentenced for one or more of these offences to a term of imprisonment of no less than three years, the court may, under the conditions indicated in subsection (1) 1st sentence No. 4 above, make an incapacitation order in addition to the sentence even in the absence of a prior sentence of imprisonment or detention (subsection (1) 1st sentence Nos 2 and 3). Subsections (1) and (2) above shall remain unaffected.

(4) Within the meaning of subsection (1) 1st sentence No 2 above an aggregate sentence shall be deemed a single sentence. If time spent in custody on remand or other detention is credited against any term of imprisonment it shall be deemed as time served for the purposes of subsection (1) 1st sentence No 3 above. A previous offence shall not be considered if a period of more than five years has passed between its commission and the subsequent offence; in the case of offences against sexual self-determination the period shall be fifteen years. Any term during which the convicted person was kept in detention by order of a public authority shall not be included in that period. An offence adjudicated abroad shall be equivalent to an offence adjudicated in the Federal Republic of Germany as long as it would be an offence under subsection (1) 1st sentence No 1 above under German criminal law, or, in cases under subsection (3) above, it would be an offence listed in subsection (3) 1st sentence above.

Section 66a Deferred incapacitation order

(1) The court may make a deferred incapacitation order if

1. a person is convicted of one of the offences in section 66(3) 1st sentence,
2. the remaining criteria of section 66(3) are fulfilled, with the exception of the reference to section 66(1) 1st sentence No 4, and
3. it is not sufficiently certain but probable that the criteria of section 66(1) 1st sentence No 4 are met.

(2) The court may also make a deferred order if

1. a person is convicted to a term of imprisonment of no less than five years for at least one felony directed against life or limb, personal freedom, sexual self-determination, under Chapter Twenty-Eight or under sections 250, 251, also in conjunction with sections 252 or 255,
2. the criteria of section 66b are not fulfilled and

3. it is sufficiently certain or at least probable that the criteria of section 66(1) 1st sentence No 4 are met.

(3) The court shall decide on making an incapacitation order deferred under subsections (1) or (2) above no later than the date when the prisoner shall have served his sentence in full; this shall apply mutatis mutandis if the prisoner had been granted conditional early release and the remainder of the sentence is being enforced. The court shall make the order if a comprehensive evaluation of the prisoner, his offences and also his development until the date of the decision indicate that he is likely to commit serious offences resulting in serious emotional trauma or physical injury to the victims.

Section 66b

Subsequent incapacitation order

If pursuant to section 67d (6) a mental hospital order has been declared moot because the condition causing insanity or diminished responsibility on which the order was based did not exist at the time of that declaration, the court may subsequently make an incapacitation order

1. if the mental hospital order pursuant to section 63 was made based upon more than one of the offences set forth in section 66 (3) 1st sentence or if the person had either previously been sentenced to a term of imprisonment of no less than three years or had a mental hospital order made against him because of one or more such offences having been committed by him prior to the offence leading to the mental hospital order pursuant to section 63, and

2. if a comprehensive evaluation of the person, his offences and his development until the date of the decision indicate a high likelihood of his committing serious offences resulting in serious emotional trauma or physical injury to the victims.

This shall apply mutatis mutandis if after serving an order under section 63 a term of imprisonment imposed at the same time is to be enforced in its entirety or in part.

Section 66c

Organisation of detention for the purposes of incapacitation and of antecedent imprisonment

(1) Detention for the purposes of incapacitation shall be carried out in institutions, which

1. offer a level of care to the detainee, based on a comprehensive treatment examination and of a regularly updated implementation plan,

a) which is individual and intensive and aimed at incentivising and fostering the detainee's cooperation, particularly a psychiatric, psycho- or socio-therapeutical treatment tailored to the needs of the detainee, insofar as standardised offers do not appear promising, and

- b) whose aim is to minimise the detainee's dangerousness to the public to a degree that he may be conditionally released from the measure or the measure declared moot as soon as possible,
- 2. guarantee a detention,
 - a) which burdens the detainee as little as possible, matches the requirements of care under No 1 above and, security interests notwithstanding, is adapted to general conditions of life, and
 - b) which is carried out in special buildings or sections separate from the prison regime, unless the treatment under No 1 exceptionally requires otherwise, and
 - 3. in order to achieve the goal mentioned in No 1 b)
 - a) offer measures for an open detention regime and preparations for the detainee's release, unless compelling objections exist, particularly specific factors indicating a danger that the detainee might abscond from detention or use the measures for the commission of serious offences, and
 - b) provide an aftercare once the detainee has regained his liberty, in close cooperation with state or private providers.
- (2) If the court in its judgment made an incapacitation order (section 66), either upon deferral (section 66a(3)) or subsequently (section 66b) or has made a deferred order (section 66a(1) and (2)), the offender shall already during his term of imprisonment be offered the care under subsection (1) No 1 above, in particular a socio-therapeutical treatment, with the aim of making the enforcement of the detention (section 67c(1) 1st sentence No 1) or its imposition (section 66a(3) unnecessary as far as possible.

Section 67 Sequence of enforcement

- (1) If custodial orders for measures under section 63 and section 64 are made in addition to a sentence of imprisonment, the measures shall be served before the sentence of imprisonment.
- (2) The court shall order that all or part of the sentence be served before the measure, if the purpose of the measure will thereby be better facilitated. When making an order for custodial addiction treatment in addition to a term of imprisonment of not less than three years the court shall order that a part of the sentence shall be served before the measure. That part of the sentence is to be calculated in a manner that enables a decision under subsection (5) 1st sentence below to be made after the part of the sentence and the measure have been served. The court shall determine that the sentence shall be served before the measure if the convicted person is obliged to leave and may be deported from the Federal Republic of Germany and if there is reason to believe that his residence within Germany will be terminated during the sentence or immediately after the sentence will have been served.
- (3) The court may subsequently make, modify or vacate an order pursuant to subsection (2) 1st or 2nd sentences above, if deemed appropriate based on the circumstances of the convicted person.
- (4) If the measure is served in whole or in part before the sentence, any time spent serving the measure shall be credited against the sentence up to a maximum of two thirds of the term of imprisonment.
- (5) If the measure is served before the sentence or a remainder of the sentence the court may grant early conditional release under section 57(1) 1st and 2nd sentences if half of the sentence has been served. If early release is not granted the measure shall continue; the court may order that the sentence be served instead if deemed appropriate based on the circumstances of the convicted person.

Section 67a

Transfer to another measure

(1) If a mental hospital order or a custodial addiction treatment order have been made the court may subsequently transfer the convicted person to serve the other of those measures if this would improve the chances of re-socialisation of the convicted person.

(2) Under the condition of subsection (1) above the court may subsequently transfer a person subject to an incapacitation order to one of the measures listed in subsection (1). A subsequent transfer may be ordered if the criteria under subsection (1) above are met and the transfer is indicated for the purposes of carrying out a medical or addiction treatment, including persons who are still in prison and whose detention for the purposes of incapacitation has been ordered or deferred.

(3) The court may modify or vacate a decision under subsections (1) and (2) above, if there is reason to believe that this would improve the chances of resocialisation of the person. The court may further vacate a decision under subsection (2), if there is reason to believe that serving the measures named in subsection (1) will not lead to the desired result.

(4) The length of the terms for serving a measure and the periods of review shall be the same that apply for an order made in a judgment. In the case of subsection (2) 2nd sentence above the court shall carry out a review before the measure is implemented within regular intervals of no more than one year, whether the conditions for a decision under subsection (3) 2nd sentence above are met.

Section 67b

Immediate order for suspended measure

(1) If the court makes a mental hospital order or a custodial addiction treatment order it shall suspend the measure for an operational probationary period if special circumstances justify the expectation that the purpose of the measure may be achieved in this manner. A suspension shall not be ordered if the person is to serve a sentence of imprisonment imposed at the same time as the measure and which has not been suspended.

(2) The order for suspension shall automatically lead to the person being subjected to supervision.

Section 67c

Deferred start date of detention

(1) If a sentence of imprisonment is served prior to a custodial measure ordered for the same offence or offences, and, before the sentence has been served, the required review shows that

1. the purpose of the measure no longer requires its enforcement, or
2. that the detention for the purposes of incapacitation order would be disproportionate because the offender was not, in an overall evaluation of the course of the prison sentence served, offered sufficient care within the meaning of section 66c(2) in conjunction with section 66c(1) No 1,

the court shall suspend the measure for an operational probationary period; the order for suspension shall automatically lead to the person being subject to supervision. The review under the 1st sentence No 1 above is not required if the detention for purposes of incapacitation was ordered by the trial court at first instance less than one year before the end of the term of the prison sentence.

(2) If the custodial measure has not commenced within a period of three years of its order becoming final, and unless a case of subsection (1) above or section 67b exists, the measure must not be enforced unless the court so orders. Time spent by the convicted person in detention by order of a public authority shall not be credited to the period. The court shall order its enforcement if the purpose of the measure still so requires. If the purpose of the measure has not been achieved, yet special circumstances justify the expectation that it may be achieved by a suspension order, the court shall suspend the measure for an operational probationary period; the order for suspension shall automatically lead to the person being subjected to supervision. If the purpose of the measure has been achieved, the court shall declare it terminated.

Section 67d Duration of detention

(1) Detention under a custodial addiction treatment order may not exceed a period of two years. This term shall run from the commencement of the detention. If a custodial measure is enforced before a sentence of imprisonment imposed at the same time, the maximum period shall be extended by the length of the term of imprisonment to the extent the time spent in the measure is credited towards the sentence.

(2) If no maximum period has been provided or the period has not yet expired, the court shall suspend the measure for an operational probationary period if it can be expected that the person subject to the measure will not commit any more unlawful acts if released. The order for suspension shall automatically lead to the person being subjected to supervision. The same shall apply mutatis mutandis if the court, after enforcement of the incapacitation order has begun, finds that its further enforcement would be disproportionate, because the detainee was not offered sufficient care within the meaning of section 66c(1) No 1 before a period set by the court not exceeding six months has elapsed; such a period shall be set by the court when reviewing the suspension of the enforcement, unless sufficient care is offered, indicating the measures to be offered. The suspension under the 1st or 2nd sentences shall automatically lead to the person being subject to supervision.

(3) If ten years of an incapacitation order have been served, the court shall declare the measure terminated and order the release if there is no danger that the person under placement will commit serious offences resulting in serious emotional trauma or physical injury to the victims. The order for release shall automatically lead to the person being subject to supervision.

(4) If the maximum period has expired the person shall be released. The measure shall thereby be terminated. The release shall automatically lead to the person being subject to supervision.

(5) The court shall declare the custodial addiction treatment order terminated if the conditions of section 64 no longer exist. The release shall automatically lead to the person being subject to supervision.

(6) If, after the enforcement of a mental hospital order has begun, the court finds that the conditions for the measure no longer exist or that the continued enforcement of the measure would be disproportionate, the court shall declare it terminated. The release shall automatically lead to the person being subjected to supervision. The court shall waive supervision if it can be expected that the person will not commit any further offences without it.

Section 67e Review

(1) The court may review at any time whether the further enforcement of the custodial measure should be suspended or the measure be declared terminated. It must perform the review within specified periods.

(2) The specified periods shall be six months for a custodial addiction treatment order; one year for a mental hospital order; one year for incapacitation orders, after ten years of detention nine months.

(3) The court may reduce the period. It may also set dates within the statutory limits for review before the expiration of which an application for review shall be inadmissible.

(4) The period shall run from the commencement of the detention. If the court denies suspension or termination the period shall commence anew with that decision.

Section 67f
Multiple orders

If the court makes a custodial addiction treatment order any previous such order shall be deemed to be terminated.

Section 67g
Revocation of suspended measure

(1) The court shall revoke the suspension of a custodial measure if the convicted person

1. commits an unlawful act during the period of supervision;
2. grossly and persistently violates directions under section 68b; or
3. persistently evades the supervision and guidance of the probation officer or the supervision authority and there is reason to believe that the purpose of the measure requires his detention. The 1st sentence above shall apply mutatis mutandis if the reason for revocation arose between the decision on suspension and the start of the supervision (section 68c(4)).

(2) The court shall also revoke the suspension of a measure pursuant to section 63 and section 64 if there is evidence during the operational period of the supervision that unlawful acts are to be expected from the convicted person as a result of his condition and the purpose of the measure requires his detention.

(3) The court shall further revoke the suspension if evidence, which has come to its attention during the period of the supervision and which would have led to the suspension being denied, shows that the purpose of the measure requires the detention of the convicted person.

(4) The period of detention before and after the revocation must not in its totality exceed the maximum statutory period for the measure.

(5) If the court does not revoke the suspension of the measure the measure shall be deemed terminated at the conclusion of the operational period of supervision.

(6) Services which the convicted person has rendered in fulfilment of directions shall not be reimbursed.

Section 67h
Limited order for measure taking effect; crisis intervention

(1) During the period of supervision the court may make an order that the suspended measure under section 63 or section 64 take effect for a duration not exceeding three months if there has been an acute deterioration of the state of the released person or a relapse into his addictive behaviour and if the measure is necessary in order to avoid a revocation under section 67g. Under the conditions of the 1st sentence above it may order the renewal of the measure or extend its duration; the maximum duration of the measure must not exceed a total of six months. Section 67g shall apply mutatis mutandis.

(2) The court shall vacate the measure before the expiry of the period set pursuant to subsection (1) above if its purpose has been achieved.

—Supervision—

Section 68
Conditions of supervision

(1) If a person has incurred a fixed-term sentence of imprisonment of not less than six months for an offence in relation to which the law specifically provides for the availability of a supervision order, the court may make such an order in addition to the sentence if there is a danger that the person will commit further offences.

(2) The statutory provisions providing for supervision (section 67b, section 67c, 67d(2) to (6) and section 68f) remain unaffected.

Section 68a

Supervising authority, probation support, forensic ambulance service

- (1) The convicted person shall be assigned to a supervising authority; the court shall appoint a probation officer to support him for the period of supervision.
- (2) The probation officer and supervising authority shall act together to assist and offer care to the convicted person.
- (3) The supervising authority shall supervise the conduct of the convicted person and the fulfilment of the directions in cooperation with the court and with the support of the probation officer.
- (4) If there is disagreement between the supervising authority and the probation officer as to questions which affect assistance and care for the convicted person the court shall resolve the matter.
- (5) The court may give instructions to the supervising authority and the probation officer concerning their functions.
- (6) Before filing a request to prosecute under section 145a 2nd sentence the supervising authority shall hear the probation officer; subsection (4) above does not apply.
- (7) If a direction pursuant to section 68b(2) 2nd and 3rd sentences has been ordered, the forensic ambulance service shall work together with the parties mentioned in subsection (2) above. Subsections (3) and (6) above on the position of the probation officer above shall apply mutatis mutandis to the forensic ambulance service.
- (8) The parties mentioned in subsection (1) above and the staff of the forensic ambulance service mentioned in section 203(1) Nos 1, 2 and 5 shall disclose third party secrets to each other which have come to their attention in the course of their activities within the relationship mentioned in section 203 or otherwise, to the extent that this is necessary to support the convicted person in avoiding the commission of future offences. Moreover, the staff of the forensic ambulance service mentioned in section 203(1) Nos 1, 2 and 5 shall disclose such secrets to the supervising authority and the court, if in their opinion

1. this is necessary for the purpose of ensuring that the convicted person adheres to a direction under section 68b(1) 1st sentence No 11 to present himself at certain intervals, or that he participates, within the remit of a direction under section 68b(2) 2nd and 3rd sentences, in treatment,
2. the conduct of the convicted person gives reason to believe that measures under section 67g, section 67h or section 68c(2) or (3) are necessary, or
3. if this is necessary to avert a serious and present danger to life and limb, personal freedom or the sexual self-determination of third parties.

In cases under the 1st sentence and the 2nd sentence Nos 2 and 3 of this subsection, information within the meaning of section 203(1) disclosed by staff of the forensic ambulance service may only be used for the purposes mentioned therein.

Section 68b

Directions

- (1) The court may, for the duration of the supervision or for a shorter period, direct the convicted person
 1. not to leave his place of domicile or his residence or a specified area without the permission of the supervising authority;
 2. not to frequent specified places which may induce him to commit further offences;
 3. not to make or maintain contact with the victim, or certain persons or persons from a certain group who may induce him to commit further offences, nor to employ, train or harbour them;

4. not to engage in particular activities which in certain circumstances may be exploited for criminal purposes;
5. not to possess, carry or entrust to another for safekeeping particular objects which could induce him to commit further offences;
6. not to possess or drive motor-vehicles or particular types of motor-vehicles or other vehicles, which in certain circumstances may be misused by him for criminal purposes;
7. to report at particular times to the supervising authority, to another public authority or to the probation officer;
8. to report promptly every change of residence or employment to the supervising authority;
9. to report in the case of unemployment to the Public Employment Agency or to another authorised employment agency;
10. not to consume alcohol or other drugs, if based on certain information there is reason to believe that their consumption will contribute to the commission of future offences, and to undergo alcohol and drug tests of a non-invasive nature; or
11. to present himself at certain times or at certain intervals to a doctor, a psychotherapist or the forensic ambulance service, or
12. to carry the equipment for the electronic monitoring of his whereabouts in working order with him at all times and not to tamper with them.

The court shall indicate the prohibited or required conduct as precisely as possible in its directions. A direction under the 1st sentence No 12 above shall be inadmissible, unless

1. the supervision was triggered by having served the totality of a sentence of imprisonment or by an aggregate sentence of no less than three years' imprisonment or on the basis of a spent measure,
2. the sentence or aggregate sentence of imprisonment or the detention were ordered for one or more offences as mentioned in section 66(3) 1st sentence,
3. there is a danger that the convicted person may commit further offences as mentioned in section 66(3) 1st sentence, and
4. the direction appears necessary to prevent the convicted person from committing further offences as mentioned in section 66(3) 1st sentence, by means of data processing under section 463a(4) 2nd sentence of the Code of Criminal Procedure, in particular for the purposes of monitoring compliance with directions imposed under the 1st sentence Nos 1 or 2 above.

The requirements of the 3rd sentence No 1 in conjunction with No 2 above are met irrespective of whether the supervision under section 68e(1) 1st sentence referred to therein has been terminated.

(2) The court may, for the duration of the supervision or for a shorter period, give directions to the convicted person, particularly in relation to education, employment, leisure, ordering of financial affairs, or the fulfilment of maintenance obligations. The court may direct the convicted person to undergo psychiatric, psycho— or sociotherapy (therapy direction). Section 56c(3) shall apply mutatis mutandis, also for the direction to undergo invasive alcohol or drug tests.

(3) No unreasonable demands may be made in the directions on the lifestyle of the convicted person.

(4) If by the commencement of a supervision period an already existing state of supervision is deemed terminated pursuant to section 68e(1) 1st sentence No 3, the court shall include the directions issued under the previous supervision in its own order.

(5) To the extent that the supervision of a convicted person in the cases of subsection (1) No 11 above or his treatment under subsection(2) above is not carried out by a forensic ambulance service section 68a(8) shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 68c

Duration

(1) The period of supervision shall last no less than two and no more than five years. The court may reduce the maximum duration.

(2) The court may make an indeterminate supervision order exceeding the maximum in subsection (1) 1st sentence above if the convicted person

1. does not consent to a direction under section 56c(3) No 1; or
2. does not comply with a direction to undergo medical treatment or addiction treatment or a therapy direction and if a danger to the general public through the commission of further serious offences is to be expected. If the convicted person subsequently consents, the court shall fix the further duration of the supervision. Section 68e(3) shall apply.

(3) The court may make an indeterminate supervision order exceeding the maximum in subsection (1) 1st sentence above if

1. in the case of a suspended mental hospital order under section 67d(2) there is reason to believe that the convicted person is otherwise about to lapse into a state under section 20 or section 21 resulting in a danger to the general public by the commission of further serious unlawful acts, or
2. if the violation of directions under section 68b(1) or (2) or other specific circumstances give reason to believe that there may be a danger to the general public by the commission of further serious offences, and
 - a) the convicted person has, for an offence listed under section 181b, been sentenced to a single or aggregate term of imprisonment of not less than two years or a mental hospital order or a custodial addiction treatment order, or
 - b) supervision under the criteria section 68b(1) 3rd sentence No 1 was triggered and the sentence or aggregate sentence of imprisonment or the detention was imposed or ordered for one or more felonies against life or limb, personal freedom or under sections 250, 251, also in conjunction with sections 252 or 255

For the termination of the supervision section 68b(1) 4th sentence shall apply mutatis mutandis.

(4) In the case of section 68b(1) supervision shall commence when the order becomes final; in the cases of section 67b(2), section 67c(1) 1st sentence and (2) 4th sentence and of section 67d(2) 3rd sentence it shall commence when the suspension order becomes final or at a later date as specified by the court. Any time during which the person was a fugitive, was hiding, or was kept in detention by order of a public authority shall not be credited against its duration.

Section 68d

Subsequent decisions; review period

(1) The court may subsequently make, modify or vacate decisions pursuant to section 68a(1) and (5), section 68b, section 68c(1) 2nd sentence, (2) and (3).

(2) In the case of a direction under section 68b(1) 1st sentence No 12, the court shall review whether it is to be vacated before two years have lapsed. Section 67e(3) and (4) shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 68e
Termination or stay of supervision

(1) Unless the supervision order is indeterminate or in the case of a suspension of a custodial measure (sections 67b(2), 67c(1) 1st sentence, (2) 4th sentence, 67d(2) 3rd sentence, the supervision ends

1. with the commencement of a custodial measure,
2. with the commencement of a sentence of imprisonment, in addition to which a custodial measure has been ordered,
3. with the commencement of a new supervision.

In all other cases the supervision shall be stayed for the time a person serves a sentence of imprisonment or a custodial measure. The court vacates any supervision triggered by the suspension of a custodial measure if it is no longer necessary in light of the existence of a circumstance mentioned in the 1st sentence Nos 1 – 3 above. If a new supervision is added to an already existing indeterminate supervision or in the case of a suspension of a custodial measure, the court shall vacate the new measure if it is not necessary in view of the existing one.

(2) The court shall terminate the supervision if there is reason to believe that the person will not commit any further offences without it. The termination must not be ordered before the expiry of the statutory minimum period. The court may set periods not exceeding six months before the expiry of which an application for termination of supervision is inadmissible.

(3) In the case of indeterminate supervision, the court shall

1. in the case of section 68c(2) 1st sentence no later than after expiry of the maximum period under section 68c (1) 1st sentence,
2. in the case of section 68c(3) before the expiry of two years, review whether a decision under subsection (2) 1st sentence above is appropriate. If the court denies the termination of supervision, it shall review the case before the expiry of a further two years.

Section 68f
Supervision after serving full sentence

(1) If a single or aggregate sentence of imprisonment of not less than two years has been imposed for intentional offences, or not less than one year for an offence listed in section 181b, has been fully served, supervision shall commence upon the release of the convicted person. This shall not apply if a custodial measure of rehabilitation and incapacitation is enforced immediately afterwards.

(2) The court may waive supervision if there is reason to believe that the convicted person will not commit further offences without supervision.

Section 68g
Supervision coinciding with suspended sentence, conditional early release or suspended professional disqualification order

(1) If a suspended sentence, conditional early release or a suspension of the professional disqualification has been ordered and if the convicted person is at the same time under supervision for the same or another offence, only section 68a and section 68b shall apply in relation to supervision and directions. Supervision shall not cease before the expiry of any operational period.

(2) If the suspended sentence, conditional early release and the supervision have been ordered on the basis of the same offence, the court may determine that the supervision shall be stayed until the expiry of any operational period. In this case the operational period shall not be credited towards the period of supervision.

(3) If after the expiry of the operational period the sentence or the remainder thereof is remitted or the professional disqualification declared terminated, supervision ordered because of the same offence shall cease at the same time, unless the supervision is indeterminate (section 68c(2) 1st sentence or (3)).

—Disqualification from driving—

Section 69
Disqualification order

(1) If a person has been convicted of an unlawful act he committed in connection with the driving of a motor-vehicle or in violation of the duties of the driver of a motor-vehicle, or has not been convicted merely because he was proven to have acted in a state of insanity or his having so acted could not be excluded, the court shall make a driving disqualification order if the act shows that he is unfit to drive a motor-vehicle. A further examination pursuant to section 62 shall not be required.

(2) If the unlawful act under subsection (1) above is one of the following misdemeanours:

1. endangering road traffic (section 315c);
2. driving while under the influence of alcohol or drugs (section 316);
3. leaving the scene of an accident without cause (section 142) although the offender knows or should have known that a person was killed, seriously injured or significant damage to the property of another was caused in the accident; or
4. committing offences in a senselessly drunken state (section 323a), if the offence committed is one of the offences in Nos 1 to 3 the person shall typically be deemed unfit to drive motor-vehicles.

(3) The driving licence shall cease when the judgment becomes final. A driving licence issued by a German public authority shall be subject to a deprivation order in the judgment.

Section 69a
Order for period before new licence may be issued

(1) If the court makes a disqualification order it shall at the same time order that no new driving licence shall be issued for a period from six months to five years (ban). The court may order a permanent ban if there is reason to believe that the statutory maximum period will not suffice to avert the danger posed by the offender. If the offender has no driving licence only a ban shall be imposed.

(2) The court may exempt particular types of motor-vehicles from the ban if special circumstances justify the assumption that the purpose of the measure will not be put at risk.

(3) The minimum ban shall be for a period of one year if during the last three years before the offence a ban had been ordered against the offender.

(4) If the offender's driving licence had been provisionally seized because of the offence (section 111a of the Code of Criminal Procedure), the minimum ban shall be reduced by the time during which the provisional deprivation was in effect. In no case shall the ban be less than three months.

(5) The ban shall commence when the judgment becomes final. The time of a provisional deprivation ordered because of the offence shall be credited towards the period of the ban to the extent it has run following the date on which the judgment in those proceedings in which the factual findings underlying the measure could last have been examined was pronounced.

(6) For the purposes of subsections (4) and (5) above the provisional seizure of a driving licence or its seizure (section 94 of the Code of Criminal Procedure) shall be equivalent to a provisional disqualification.

(7) If there is reason to believe that the offender is no longer unfit to drive motor-vehicles the court may terminate the ban. This termination may not be ordered unless the ban has been in effect for three months, or a year in cases pursuant to subsection (3) above; subsection (5) 2nd sentence and subsection (6) above shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 69b

Effect of disqualification in case of foreign licence

(1) If the offender is allowed to drive motor-vehicles in Germany on the basis of a licence granted abroad, without a driving licence having been issued by a German public authority, the disqualification order shall have the effect of a loss of the right to make use of the licence in Germany. The right to drive motor-vehicles in Germany ceases when the decision becomes final. For the duration of the ban neither a German licence may be issued nor the right to make use of the foreign licence be reinstated.

(2) If the foreign driving licence was issued by a public authority of a member state of the European Union or another signatory state of the Treaty on the European Economic Area and the holder has his domicile in Germany the driving licence shall be ordered confiscated in the judgment and sent back to the issuing authority. In all other cases the loss of the right to drive and the ban shall be endorsed on the foreign driving licences.

—Disqualification from exercising a profession—

Section 70

Order for professional disqualification

(1) If a person has been convicted of an unlawful act he committed in abuse of his profession or trade or in gross violation of the attendant duties, or has not been convicted merely because he was proven to have acted in a state of insanity or his having so acted could not be excluded the court may make an order disqualifying him from engaging in that profession, branch of profession, trade or branch of trade, for a period from one year to five years, if a comprehensive evaluation of the offender and the offence shows that by further engagement in the profession, branch of profession, trade or branch of trade there is a danger that he will commit serious unlawful acts of the kind indicated above. The disqualification order may be made in permanence if there is reason to believe that the statutory maximum period will not suffice to avert the danger posed by the offender.

(2) If the offender had been provisionally disqualified from engaging in a profession, branch of profession, trade or branch of trade (section 132a of the Code of Criminal Procedure), the minimum term of disqualification shall be reduced by the time during which the provisional disqualification was in effect. In no case may it be less than three months.

(3) For the duration of the disqualification the offender must neither engage in the profession, branch of profession, trade or branch of trade on behalf of another nor have a person who is subject to his instructions engage in it on his behalf.

(4) The disqualification shall commence when the judgment becomes final. Any period of a provisional disqualification imposed because of the act shall be credited to the disqualification period to the extent it has run following the date on which the judgment in those proceedings in which the factual findings underlying the measure could last have been examined was pronounced. Any period during which the offender was kept in detention by order of a public authority shall not be so credited.

Section 70a

Order suspending professional disqualification

(1) If, after a disqualification order has been made, there is reason to believe that there is no longer a danger that the offender will commit serious unlawful acts of the kind mentioned in section 70(1) the court may suspend the order for a probationary operational period.

(2) The order must not be made before the expiry of one year. Any time of a provisional disqualification shall be credited to the period of disqualification under section 70(4) 2nd sentence. Any period during which the offender was kept in detention by order of a public authority shall not be so credited.

(3) If the disqualification order is suspended, section 56a and sections 56c to 56e shall apply mutatis mutandis. The operational period shall be extended by any time during which a sentence of imprisonment or a custodial measure, which was imposed on or ordered against the convicted person because of the offence, was served.

Section 70b
Revocation of order

- (1) The court shall revoke the suspension of the disqualification order if the convicted person
1. commits an unlawful act in abuse of his profession or trade or of the attendant duties during the operational period;
 2. grossly or persistently violates a direction; or
 3. persistently evades the supervision and guidance of the probation officer and there is reason to believe that the purpose of the disqualification requires its enforcement.
- (2) The court shall further revoke the suspension if evidence, which has come to its attention during the period of the supervision and which would have led to the suspension being denied, shows that the purpose of the measure requires the enforcement of the disqualification.
- (3) Any period of the suspension shall not be credited to the period of disqualification.
- (4) Services which the convicted person has rendered in fulfilment of directions and assurances shall not be reimbursed.
- (5) After the operational period has expired the court shall declare the disqualification terminated.

—Common provisions—

Section 71
Independent orders

- (1) The court may make an independent mental hospital order or a custodial addiction treatment order if criminal proceedings are impracticable because the offender is insane or unfit to plead.
- (2) The same shall apply to driving and professional disqualification orders.

Section 72
Orders for joint measures

- (1) If the conditions for more than one measure are fulfilled but the intended purpose can be achieved through individual orders from among their number, only those individual measures shall be ordered. Priority among a number of suitable measures shall be given to those which pose the least burden on the offender.
- (2) In all other cases, measures shall be ordered concurrently unless the law provides otherwise.
- (3) If more than one custodial measure is imposed the court shall determine the sequence of their enforcement. Before any measure has been fully served the court shall order the enforcement of the next if its purpose still requires detention. Section 67c(2) 4th and 5th sentences shall apply mutatis mutandis.

SEVENTH TITLE
CONFISCATION AND DEPRIVATION ORDERS

Section 73
Conditions of confiscation

- (1) If an unlawful act has been committed and the principal or a secondary participant has acquired proceeds from it or obtained anything in order to commit it, the court shall order the confiscation of what was obtained. This shall not apply to the extent that the act has given rise to a claim of the victim the satisfaction of which would deprive the principal or secondary participant of the value of what has been obtained.
- (2) The order of confiscation shall extend to benefits derived from what was obtained. It may also extend to objects which the principal or secondary participant has acquired by way of sale of the acquired object, as a replacement for its destruction, damage to or forcible loss of it or on the basis of a surrogate right.

(3) If the principal or secondary participant acted for another and that person acquired anything thereby, the order of confiscation under subsections (1) and (2) above shall be made against him.

(4) The confiscation of an object shall also be ordered if it is owned or subject to a right by a third party, who furnished it to support the act or with knowledge of the circumstances of the act.

Section 73a

Confiscation of monetary value

To the extent that the confiscation of a particular object is impossible due to the nature of what was obtained or for some other reason or because confiscation of a surrogate object pursuant to section 73(2) 2nd sentence has not been ordered, the court shall order the confiscation of a sum of money which corresponds to the value of what was obtained. The court shall also make such an order in addition to the confiscation of an object to the extent that its value falls short of the value of what was originally obtained.

Section 73b

Assessment of value

The scope of what was obtained and its value as well as the amount of the victim's claim the satisfaction of which would deprive the principal or secondary participant of that which was obtained may be estimated.

Section 73c

Hardship

(1) Confiscation shall not be ordered to the extent it would constitute an undue hardship for the person affected. The order may be waived to the extent the value of what was obtained is no longer part of the affected person's assets at the time of the order or if what was obtained is only of minor value.

(2) As to conditions of payment section 42 shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 73d

Extended confiscation

(1) If an unlawful act has been committed pursuant to a law which refers to this provision, the court shall also order the confiscation of objects of the principal or secondary participant if the circumstances justify the assumption that these objects were acquired as a result of unlawful acts, or for the purpose of committing them. The 1st sentence shall also apply if the principal or secondary participant does not own or have a right to the object merely because he acquired the object as a result of an unlawful act or for the purpose of committing it. Section 73(2) shall apply mutatis mutandis.

(2) If the confiscation of a particular object has, after the act, become impossible in whole or in part section 73a and section 73b shall apply mutatis mutandis.

(3) If after an order of confiscation pursuant to subsection (1) above, due to another unlawful act which the principal or secondary participant committed before that order, a decision must again be taken as to the confiscation of objects of the principal or secondary participant, the court in doing so shall take into account the previous order.

(4) Section 73c shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 73e

Effect of confiscation

(1) If the confiscation of an object is ordered title to the property or the right confiscated shall pass to the state once the order becomes final if the person affected by the order has a right to it at the time. The rights of third parties in the object remain unaffected.

(2) Prior to its becoming final the order shall have the effect of a prohibition to sell within the meaning of section 136 of the Civil Code; the prohibition shall also cover dispositions other than sales.

Section 74
Conditions of deprivation

(1) If an intentional offence has been committed objects generated by or used intended for use in its commission or preparation, the court may make a deprivation order.

(2) A deprivation order shall not be admissible unless

1. the principal or secondary participant owns or has a right to the objects at the time of the decision; or
2. the objects, due to their nature and the circumstances, pose a danger to the general public or if there is reason to believe that they will be used for the commission of unlawful acts.

(3) Under the provisions of subsection (2) No 2 above the deprivation of objects shall also be admissible if the offender acted without guilt.

(4) If deprivation is prescribed or permitted by a special provision apart from subsection (1) above, subsections (2) and (3) above shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 74a
Extended conditions of deprivation

If the law refers to this provision, objects may be subject to a deprivation order as an exception to section 74(2) No 1 if at the time of the decision the person who owns or has a right to them

1. at least with gross negligence contributed to the property or the right being the object of or being used for the act or its preparation; or
2. acquired the objects dishonestly with knowledge of the circumstances that would have allowed their deprivation.

Section 74b
Principle of proportionality

(1) If deprivation is not otherwise prescribed it may not be ordered in cases under section 74(2) No 1 and section 74a if it is disproportionate to the significance of the act committed and the blameworthiness of the principal or secondary participant or of the third party in cases of section 74a.

(2) In cases under section 74 and section 74a the court shall defer the deprivation order and impose a less incisive measure if the purpose of a deprivation order can also be attained thus. Particular consideration shall be given to instructions

1. to destroy the objects;
2. to remove particular fittings or distinguishing marks from or otherwise modify the objects; or
3. to dispose of the objects in a specified manner.

If the instructions are carried out the deferment order shall be rescinded; otherwise the court shall subsequently order the deprivation.

(3) If deprivation is not otherwise proscribed it may be limited to a part of the objects.

Section 74c
Deprivation of monetary value

(1) If the principal or secondary participant has used, particularly disposing of it or consuming it, the object which he owned or had a right to at the time of the offence and which could have been subject to deprivation, or if he has otherwise obstructed the deprivation of the object, the court may order the deprivation from the principal or secondary participant, of a sum of money no greater than the amount equivalent to the value of the object.

- (2) The court may also make such an order in addition to the deprivation of an object or in place thereof, if the principal or secondary participant has, prior to the decision on the deprivation, encumbered it with the right of a third party, the extinguishment of which cannot be ordered without compensation or could not be ordered in the case of deprivation (section 74e(2) and section 74f); if the court makes the order in addition to the deprivation, then the amount of the surrogate value shall be assessed according to the value of the encumbrance.
- (3) The value of the object and the encumbrance may be estimated.
- (4) As to conditions of payment section 42 shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 74d Deprivation and destruction of publication media

- (1) Written materials (section 11(3)) of a content every intentional dissemination of which with knowledge of the content would fulfil the elements of a criminal provision, shall be subject to a deprivation order if at least one copy was disseminated through an unlawful act or was intended for such dissemination. At the same time the equipment used for or intended for the production of the written material, such as plates, frames, type, blocks, negatives or stencils, shall be destroyed.
- (2) The deprivation shall extend only to those copies which are in the possession of the persons involved in their dissemination or preparation or which have been publicly displayed or, if they were sent for dissemination, have not yet been distributed to the recipient.
- (3) Subsection (1) above shall apply mutatis mutandis to written materials (section 11(3)) of a content the intentional dissemination of which with knowledge of the content would fulfil the elements of a criminal provision only under additional circumstances. Deprivation and destruction shall not be ordered unless
1. the copies and the objects indicated in subsection (1) 2nd sentence above are in the possession of the principal or secondary participant or another on whose behalf the principal or secondary participant acted, or are intended by these people for dissemination; and
 2. the measures are required to prevent any unlawful dissemination by these persons.
- (4) Dissemination within the meaning of subsections (1) to (3) above shall also mean providing access to written material (section 11(3)) or at least one copy of it to the public by putting it on display, putting up posters, performances or other means.
- (5) Section 74b(2) and (3) shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 74e Effect of deprivation

- (1) If the deprivation of an object is ordered, title to the property or the right ordered deprived shall pass to the state once the order becomes final.
- (2) The rights of third parties in the object remain unaffected. The court shall order the cessation of these rights if it bases the deprivation on the fact that the conditions of section 74(2) No 2 are met. It may also order the cessation of the rights of a third party if no compensation is due to him pursuant to section 74f(2) Nos 1 or 2.
- (3) Section 73e(2) shall apply mutatis mutandis to the order of deprivation and the order deferring deprivation before they have become final.

Section 74f Compensation

- (1) If a third party had title to the property or to the right ordered deprived at the time the decision on deprivation or destruction became final or if the object was encumbered by a right of a third party which was extinguished or prejudiced by the decision, the third party shall be adequately compensated in money from the public treasury, taking into consideration the fair market value.
- (2) Compensation shall not be granted if

1. the third party at least with gross negligence contributed to the property or the right being the object of or being used for the act or its preparation,
 2. the third party acquired the objects or the right dishonestly with knowledge of the circumstances that would have allowed their deprivation, or
 3. it would be lawful under the circumstances which justified the deprivation or destruction, to deprive the third party permanently of the object and without compensation on the basis of provisions outside the criminal law.
- (3) In cases under subsection (2) above the court may grant compensation to the extent that it would constitute an undue hardship to deny it.

Section 75

Special provision for organs and representatives

If a person commits an act

1. in his capacity as an organ authorised to represent a legal entity or as a member of such an organ;
2. in his capacity as a director or member of board of directors of an association lacking independent legal capacity;
3. as a partner authorised to represent a partnership with independent legal capacity; or
4. as an authorised representative with full power of attorney or in a management position as general agent or authorised representative, with a commercial power of attorney, of a legal entity or association listed in Nos 2 or 3 above; or
5. as another person acting in a responsible capacity for the management of the business or enterprise of a legal entity or association listed in Nos 2 or 3 above, including the supervision of the management of the business, or other exercise of controlling powers in a senior management position, which in relation to him and under the other conditions of sections 74 to 74c and section 74f would allow the deprivation of an object or its surrogate value or justify the denial of compensation, his act shall be attributed and these provisions applied to the person or entity represented. Section 14(3) shall apply mutatis mutandis.

—Common provisions—

Section 76

Subsequent orders for confiscation or deprivation of monetary value

If an order for confiscation or deprivation of an object is not enforceable or inadequate because after making it one of the conditions indicated in section 73a, section 73d(2), or section 74c has arisen or come to its attention, the court may subsequently order the confiscation or deprivation of the monetary value.

Section 76a

Independent orders

(1) If for reasons of fact no person can be prosecuted or convicted of the offence, confiscation or deprivation of the object or the monetary value or destruction must or may be independently ordered if the conditions under which the measure is prescribed or available otherwise are met.

(2) Subsection (1) above shall, under the provisions of section 74(2) No 2, (3) and section 74d, apply if

1. prosecution of the offence is barred by the statute of limitations; or

2. for other reasons of law no person may be prosecuted and the law does not provide otherwise.

Deprivation or destruction must not be ordered in the absence of a request or authorisation to prosecute or a request by a foreign state.

(3) Subsection (1) above shall apply if the court orders a discharge or if the proceedings are terminated pursuant to a provision allowing this in the discretion of either the public prosecution service or the court or with their mutual agreement.

CHAPTER FOUR

REQUEST TO PROSECUTE; AUTHORISATION TO PROSECUTE; REQUEST TO PROSECUTE BY A FOREIGN STATE

Section 77

Locus standi for request

- (1) If an offence may only be prosecuted upon a request to prosecute, the victim may file the request unless the law provides otherwise.
- (2) If the victim dies, his right to file a request passes, if so provided by law, to his spouse, same sex partner and children. If the victim leaves neither a spouse, same sex partner nor children or if they have died before the expiry of the time limit for filing the request, the right to file the request passes to his parents and, if they have died before the expiry of the time limit for filing the request, to his siblings and grandchildren. If a relative has participated in the offence or his quality as a relative of the victim has ceased, he is excluded from the list of those to whom the right to file the request may pass. The right to file the request does not pass if a prosecution were to contravene the professed will of the victim.
- (3) If the person entitled to file a request lacks legal capacity or has only limited legal capacity, his statutory representative for his personal affairs and the person responsible for the care of the person are entitled to file a request.
- (4) If more than one person is entitled to file a request, each may file a request independently.

Section 77a

Request by a superior

- (1) If the offence has been committed by or against a public official, persons entrusted with special public service functions, or a soldier in the Armed Forces and may be prosecuted upon request by his superior in the public service, the superior under whom the person concerned served at the time of the act is entitled to file the request.
- (2) In the case of professional judges the person exercising disciplinary supervision over the judge shall be entitled to file the request in place of the superior in the public service. In the case of soldiers the superior in the public service shall be the disciplinary superior officer.
- (3) In the case of a public official or a person entrusted with special public service functions who does not or did not have a superior in the public service, the public authority for which he acted may file the request. If the public official or the entrusted person is the head of this public authority, the state supervisory authority is entitled to file the request.
- (4) In the case of members of the Federal Government or members of a state government, the Federal Government and state government, as the case may be, shall be entitled to file the request.

Section 77b

Time limit

- (1) An offence which may only be prosecuted upon request shall not be prosecuted if the person entitled to file the request fails to do so before the expiry of a three-month period. If the end of the period falls on a Sunday, a general holiday or a Saturday, then the period shall end with the expiry of the next working day.
- (2) The period shall commence upon the expiry of the day on which the entitled person acquired knowledge of the offence and the identity of the offender. If the prosecution of the offence is also dependent on a decision as to the nullity or dissolution of a marriage, the period shall not begin before the expiry of the day on which the entitled person acquires knowledge that the decision is final. For a request by the statutory representative or the person responsible for the care of the person, their own knowledge is dispositive.

(3) If more than one person is entitled to file a request or more than one person participated in the offence the period shall run separately for and against each person.

(4) If as a result of the death of the victim the right to file a request has passed to relatives the period shall end no sooner than three months and no later than six months after the death of the victim.

(5) The course of the period shall be stayed if an application has been received by a settlement board to conduct a reconciliation attempt pursuant to section 380 of the Code of Criminal Procedure until the certificate pursuant to section 380(1) 3rd sentence of the Code of Criminal Procedure has been issued.

Section 77c

Offences committed mutually

If in the case of offences committed mutually which may only be prosecuted upon request one entitled person has filed a request for the prosecution of the other, the other person's right to file a request ceases if he does not exercise it before the completion of his last word in the trial proceedings at first instance. He may file a request notwithstanding that for him the period for filing it may have expired.

Section 77d

Withdrawal of request

(1) The request may be withdrawn. The withdrawal must be declared before the final conclusion of the proceedings. A withdrawn request cannot be filed afresh.

(2) If the victim, or, in the case of his death, the person entitled, dies after he has filed the request, the spouse, the same sex partner, children, parents, siblings or grandchildren of the victim party may withdraw the request in the order of precedence indicated in section 77(2). Several relatives of equal precedence may only exercise the right jointly. A relative who participated in the offence may not withdraw the complaint.

Section 77e

Authorisation; request by a foreign state

If the offence may only be prosecuted upon authorisation or upon a request to prosecute by a foreign state, section 77 and section 77d shall apply mutatis mutandis.

CHAPTER FIVE LIMITATION PERIOD

FIRST TITLE LIMITATION ON PROSECUTION

Section 78

Limitation period

(1) The imposition of punishment and measures (section 11(1) No 8) shall be excluded on expiry of the limitation period. Section 76a(2) 1st sentence No 1 remains unaffected.

(2) Felonies under section 211 (murder under specific aggravating circumstances) are not subject to the statute of limitations.

(3) To the extent that prosecution is subject to the statute of limitations, the limitation period shall be

1. thirty years in the case of offences punishable by imprisonment for life;
2. twenty years in the case of offences punishable by a maximum term of imprisonment of more than ten years;

3. ten years in the case of offences punishable by a maximum term of imprisonment of more than five years but no more than ten years;

4. five years in the case of offences punishable by a maximum term of imprisonment of more than one year but no more than five years;

5. three years in the case of other offences.

(4) The period shall conform to the penalty provided for in the law defining the elements of the offence, irrespective of aggravating or mitigating circumstances provided for in the provisions of the General Part or of aggravated or privileged offences in the Special Part .

Section 78a Commencement

The limitation period shall commence to run as soon as the offence is completed. If a result constituting an element of the offence occurs later, the limitation period shall commence to run from that time.

Section 78b Stay of limitation

(1) The limitation period shall be stayed

1. until the victim of an offence under sections 174 to 174c, 176 to 179, 225 and 226a has reached the age of twenty-one,

2. as long as the prosecution may, according to the law, not be commenced or continued; this shall not apply if the act may not be prosecuted only because of the absence of a request or authorisation to prosecute or a request to prosecute by a foreign state.

(2) If a prosecution is not feasible because the offender is a member of the Federal Parliament or a legislative body of a state, the stay of the limitation period shall only commence upon expiry of the day on which

1. the public prosecutor or a public authority or a police officer acquires knowledge of the offence and the identity of the offender; or

2. a criminal complaint or a request to prosecute is filed against the offender (section 158 of the Code of Criminal Procedure).

(3) If a judgment has been delivered in the proceedings at first instance before the expiry of the limitation period, the limitation period shall not expire before the time the proceedings have been finally concluded.

(4) If the Special Part provides for a sentence of imprisonment of more than five years in aggravated cases and if the trial proceedings have been instituted in the District Court, the statute of limitations shall be stayed in cases under section 78 (3) No 4 from the admission of the indictment by the trial court, but no longer than for five years; subsection (3) above remains unaffected.

(5) If the offender resides in a country abroad and if the competent authority makes a formal request for extradition to that state, the limitation period is stayed from the time the request is served on the foreign state,

1. until the surrender of the offender to the German authorities,

2. until the offender otherwise leaves the territory of the foreign state,

3. until the denial of the request by the foreign state is served on the German authorities or

4. until the withdrawal of the request.

If the date of the service of the request upon the foreign state cannot be ascertained, the request shall be deemed to have been served one month after having been sent to the foreign state unless the requesting authority acquires knowledge of the fact that the request was in fact not served on the foreign state or only later. The 1st sentence of this subsection shall not apply to requests for surrender for which, in the requested state, a limitation period similar to section 83c of the Law on International Assistance in Criminal Matters exists, either based on the Framework Decision of the Council of 13 June 2002 on the European Arrest Warrant and the surrender agreements between the member states (OJ L 190, 18.7.2002, p 1), or based on an international treaty.

Section 78c Interruption

(1) The limitation period shall be interrupted by

1. the first interrogation of the accused, notice that investigations have been initiated against him, or the order for such an interrogation or notice thereof;
2. any judicial interrogation of the accused or the order for that purpose;
3. any commissioning of an expert by the judge or public prosecutor if the accused has previously been interrogated or has been given notice of the initiation of investigations;
4. any judicial seizure or search warrant and judicial decisions upholding them;
5. an arrest warrant, a provisional detention order, an order to be brought before a judge for interrogation and judicial decisions upholding them;
6. the preferment of a public indictment;
7. the admission of the indictment by the trial court;
8. any setting of a trial date;
9. a summary judgment order or another decision equivalent to a judgment;
10. the provisional judicial dismissal of the proceedings due to the absence of the indicted accused as well as any order of the judge or public prosecutor issued after such a dismissal of the proceedings or in proceedings in absentia in order to ascertain the whereabouts of the indicted accused or to secure evidence;
11. the provisional judicial dismissal of the proceedings due to the unfitness to plead of the indicted and any order of the judge or public prosecutor issued after such a dismissal of the proceedings for the purposes of reviewing the fitness of the indicted accused to plead; or
12. any judicial request to undertake an investigative act abroad.

In separate proceedings for measures of rehabilitation and incapacitation and in an independent proceeding for deprivation or confiscation, the limitation period shall be interrupted by acts in these proceedings corresponding to those in the 1st sentence of this subsection.

(2) The limitation period shall be interrupted by a written order or decision at the time at which the order or decision is signed. If the document is not immediately processed after signing the time it is actually submitted for processing shall be dispositive.

(3) After each interruption the limitation period shall commence to run anew. The prosecution shall be barred by limitation once twice the statutory limitation period has elapsed since the time indicated in section 78a, or three years if the limitation period is shorter than three years. Section 78b shall remain unaffected.

(4) The interruption shall have effect only for the person in relation to whom the interrupting act is done.

(5) If a law which applies at the time the offence is completed is amended before a decision and the limitation period is thereby shortened, acts leading to an interruption which have been undertaken before the entry into force of the new law shall retain their effect, notwithstanding that at the time of the interruption the prosecution would have been barred by the statute of limitations under the amended law.

SECOND TITLE LIMITATION ON ENFORCEMENT

Section 79

Limitation period

(1) Any imposed penalty or measure (section 11(1) No 8) which has become final may no longer be enforced after the expiry of the limitation period.

(2) The enforcement of sentences of imprisonment for life is not subject to a statute of limitations.

(3) The limitation period shall be

1. twenty-five years for a term of imprisonment of more than ten years;
2. twenty years for a term of imprisonment of more than five years but not more than ten years;
3. ten years for a term of imprisonment of more than one year but not more than five years;
4. five years for a term of imprisonment not exceeding one year and fines of more than thirty daily units;
5. three years for fines not exceeding thirty daily units.

(4) The enforcement of an incapacitation order and of an indeterminate supervision order (section 68c(2) 1st sentence or (3)) shall not be subject to a statute of limitations. The limitation period shall be

1. five years in all other cases of supervision orders and the first custodial addiction treatment order,
2. ten years for all other measures.

(5) If a sentence of imprisonment and a fine are imposed at the same time, or if in addition to a sentence a custodial measure, confiscation, deprivation or destruction are ordered, the enforcement of the sentence or the measure shall not be barred by the statute of limitations before the enforcement of the others. A simultaneous incapacitation order shall not prevent the course of the limitation period for the enforcement of penalties or other measures.

(6) The limitation period shall commence when the decision becomes final.

Section 79a Stay of limitation

The limitation period shall be stayed

1. as long as the enforcement may for reasons of law not commence or continue;
2. as long as the convicted person is granted
 - (a) a deferment or interruption of the enforcement;
 - (b) suspension of sentence by judicial decision or by act of pardon; or
 - (c) terms of payment in the case of a fine, confiscation or deprivation,

3. as long as the convicted person is detained in an institution by order of a public authority in Germany or abroad.

Section 79b
Prolongation

The court may, upon application of the enforcing authority, once prolong the period of limitation before its expiry by one half of the statutory limitation period if the convicted person resides in a territory from which his extradition or surrender cannot be achieved.
